Roanoke County Parks Receives Four State Awards

(ROANOKE COUNTY, Va.) December 9, 2014 – Roanoke County's Department of Parks, Recreation and Tourism took home four awards this week at the Virginia Recreation and Park Society's annual conference, held this year at the Homestead Resort. The County was recognized for excellence in special events with an award for the Roanoke Zombie 5k race, as well as excellence in environmental sustainability for "The World Is Not Your Ashtray" public information campaign. The department was also recognized for outstanding promotional efforts including a Green Ridge Recreation Center video production and a facility rental brochure.

Over a hundred applications were received, vying for awards in 14 different categories. Judged by a jury of peers, Roanoke County was among the most awarded organizations this year. According to Parks, Recreation and Tourism Doug Blount, this year's strong showing was a positive reflection on the community. "These awards demonstrate our dedication to improving quality of life by providing engaging recreational opportunities for our citizens. We're proud to offer such a diverse selection of program offerings, and we're proud of the hard working staff and volunteers that make them possible." Awards presented to Roanoke County at the conference include:
